

The Wisdom that comes from the Spirit reveals that every servant of Christ is incomplete in their personal sanctification, simply because we still retain something of Adam's declaration of independence, to stand apart from God and His people, according to human wisdom. No one knows all the mystery of God.

We are all prone to take life in relation to the flesh too seriously when we become despondent because of the set downs we experience in the world. No one is made perfect in the image of Christ, so everyone has the potential to hurt our over sensitive feelings when we feel under pressure. We can even misinterpret people's motives and assume harm when none is intended.

The solution to being downcast is to look to Jesus Christ who gives His life to those who love and obey Him.
